Ford, Mao Confer

PEKING (AP) — President Ford met for nearly two hours with Chairman Mao Tse-tung late this afternoon.

The 81-year-old founder of Communist China received the President, his wife, Betty; their 18-year-old daughter, Susan, and seven U.S. officials at his home near the Forbidden City in downtown Peking.

The White House said the Fords were accompanied by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger; Lt. Gen. Brent Scowcroft, the national security adviser to the President; George Bush, the U.S. liaison officer in Peking; Undersecretary of State Joseph Sisco; Assistant Secretary of State Philip Habib; Winston Lord, director of the State Department policy planning staff; and Richard Solomon, a member of the National Security Council.

After introductions, handshakes and some small talk, Mrs. Ford and Susan left, accompanied by Sisco, Habib and Solomon. Kissinger, Bush, Scowcroft and Lord remained for Ford's talk with Mao.

A U.S. spokesman said the visit lasted an hour and 55 minutes.

Details were to be announced later. The meeting had been expected since about noon, when Susan Ford was called back from a trip to the Ming Tombs, 12 miles outside Peking.

The President met for two hours during the morning with China's acting premier, Vice Premier Teng Hsiang-ping, and the White House reported "a constructive exchange of views on a wide range of international issues."

"Both sides found the discussions were beneficial," said the brief American communique.

The announcement said Kissinger and Foreign Minister Chiao Kuan-hua would continue the discussion.

The President was unsmiling and appeared preoccupied as he left the Great Hall of the People after the meeting.

The topics discussed by Ford and Teng were not announced. But White House spokesman Ron Nessen said before the meeting he thought Soviet-American detente would be one of the subjects discussed and "I think he'll explain the American position forcefully and fully and frankly."

Teng, in his toast at the state banquet Monday night following Ford's arrival, voiced once again his government's fear that because of the detente policy, the Soviet Union no longer considers the United States a deterrent to its territorial ambitions.

The Chinese leader referred to the Soviet Union as "the country which most zealously preaches peace but is the most dangerous source of war."

"Rhetoric about detente cannot cover up the stark reality of the growing danger of war."

Nessen observed that Teng's words were milder than the toast given by the Chinese foreign minister when Kissinger visited Peking in October. He added that they were much milder than what appears in the daily Chinese press.

Ford, in his reply to Teng's toast, said the United States and China have a "mutual interest in seeing that the world is not dominated by military force or pressure."

But he reminded his hosts that "each of us will of course determine our policies and methods according to our differing positions in the world and our perceptions of our respective national interests."

Mrs. Ford spent the morning resting. She and the President were to attend a performance of a revolutionary ballet tonight.

Nessen said the President is spending two hours a day on domestic business but has not yet begun working on the budget.

New York Aid Takes Short Cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford's $2.3-billion plan for federal aid to New York City is taking a short-cut through Congress, and backers of the proposal say they expect it to win approval.

New York Mayor Abraham Beame is scheduled to meet with congressional leaders today as the House begins consideration of the plan Ford offered to help the city avoid default.

Congress returned from its Thanksgiving recess on Monday and began plans for dealing with the proposal. House leaders immediately agreed to scrap the aid bill already under consideration and to substitute the Ford plan as an amendment, which means the measure does not have to travel through committee to reach the floor.

The President announced last week that he had changed his staunch opposition to any aid for New York. He outlined a proposal that would offer federal loans to the city during each of the next three years. The loans would be repayable each year at interest rates up to 1 per cent higher than the federal government pays to borrow money.

The Ford plan requires New York to revamp its fiscal system and keep its financial affairs under tight control.

The measure the Ford plan replaces had already won approval from the House Banking Committee and would have called for the federal government to guarantee repayment of private loans to New York. Ford's opposition had given that plan little chance of success.

The Ford measure was introduced in the Senate by Republicans John Tower of Texas and Jacob Javits of New York. Javits called Ford's plan "the very minimum" to assure New York's fiscal survival.

House Majority Whip John J. McFall, D-Calif., said the Ford measure should pass easily now that the President is behind it, although conservative opposition still is expected.

And there was still the threat in the Senate of a filibuster from Sen. James B. Allen, D-Ala., who told his constituents in a weekend speech that Ford's measure would "reward bad management."

Cutting off a filibuster would require the votes of 60 senators. Acting Democratic Leader Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., said he did not see any problem in getting that many votes.

Beame, in Miami Beach, Fla., Monday for the annual meeting of the National League of Cities, said he thinks New York can avert default if Congress acts quickly on the Ford plan.

Beame said Ford's turnaround on New York aid "had a tinge of politics to it." He adding that "politically, his first actions in denying us aid undoubtedly had hurt him very badly. As for this action, it's hard to say immediately how it will affect him."

Summit Meet On Economic Still Divided

ROME (AP) — Britain and its eight Common Market partners were still divided on a number of issues today as their two-day summit meeting went into its final sessions.

Prime Minister Harold Wilson was insisting on a separate seat for Britain at the Paris conference on energy and raw materials scheduled to open Dec. 16. The other members of the European Economic Community — France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, The Netherlands, Luxembourg, Ireland and Denmark — want a single delegation to represent the entire group.

Officials in Washington said the British demand could upset plans for the conference, which will launch lengthy negotiations to work out new international trade arrangements, and delay it until January or February, at the earliest.

Britain, although now a petroleum importer like the other Common Market members, hopes to become an exporter of North Sea oil in the 1980s and does not want to be bound by a policy formulated by importers.

One suggested compromise was for the British to lead the Common Market delegation on the oil and energy commission that the Paris conference is to set up.

The government chiefs agreed Monday night on the principle of direct elections for a European parliament. But Wilson questioned whether Britain could alter its electoral system to provide for proportional representation by 1978, the present target date.

The other governments also expressed anxiety over the British government's plans to restrict import of textiles, shoes and automobiles. They consider these a blow to the free-trade provisions of the 18-year-old Treaty of Rome, which created the European Community.

There seemed no opposition to the issuance of European Community passports, colored Bordeaux red, by 1978 as a symbol of unity. But it has not been decided whether the individual governments or the EEC would issue the passports to the community's 250 million people.

The meeting approved a British proposal for a meeting of interior ministers to plan a coordinated fight against crime and terrorism.

Revenue Sharing Worries Grow

MIAMI BEACH (AP) — The nation's city officials and the White House are increasingly worried that Congress may not renew the federal revenue-sharing program which one mayor has called "the best thing since ice cream" for the cities.

This new concern has been demonstrated at the National League of Cities' annual convention that began here last weekend.

James Falk, associate director of the White House Domestic Council and the administration's chief lobbyist at the convention, said in an interview, "I am not immediately optimistic and I am more concerned than I was five months ago about the ultimate fate of the program."

The nearly 3,000 city officials at the convention heard the league president, Mayor Carlos Romero Barcelo of San Juan, P.R., warn: "We cannot possibly risk that any laxness or irresolution on our part may allow the critics of this essential program to score a 'victory' by defeating general revenue sharing."

And Rep. Norman Mineta, D-Calif., former mayor of San Jose, Calif., and now chairman of the freshmen Democrats in the House, told them there is a "very real possibility that without substantial efforts on your part, the general revenue-sharing program will not be continued."

The league's board of directors sent a telegram Saturday to Rep. L. H. Fountain, D-N.C., chairman of the House intergovernmental relations subcommittee, which has held hearings on a renewal of the measure, and urged prompt approval of President Ford's proposal to extend revenue sharing for 5½ years at a cost of $39.8-billion. Fountain has said he cannot act on the bill before the end of this year.

A group of Democratic mayors also sent a prodding telegram over the weekend to Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Tex., chairman of the parent Government Operations Committee. Mineta said Brooks has expressed "strong philosophical opposition to the program."

The current $30-billion, five-year program expires at the end of 1976. It has provided cities and states with the first federal aid they could spend any way they chose.

Mayor Moon Landrieu of New Orleans, president of the U.S. Conference of Mayors, the league's sister, told a news conference Monday that without renewal, "There's absolutely no way I could balance my city's budget without revenue-sharing money."

Landrieu, who made the comparison with ice cream, has said that failure to re-enact revenue sharing would force cities to cut services at a time when recession and unemployment were generating increased demands on cities or to raise local taxes.

Some congressional Democratic critics of the program say it gives too much money to cities which don't need it or they view the measure as a Republican program. Others don't like relinquishing congressional control over and credit for the ways federal tax dollars are spent.

Williamsport Zoning Ordinance Altered; First Reading Held

A comprehensive zoning plan for the village of Williamsport, kicked back to the Planning Committee for further study following a stormy public hearing Nov. 10, was presented to council Monday night.

First reading was held on the proposed ordinance, which was designed to promote the orderly development of the village in accordance with the Ohio Revised Code.

Two more readings are required before the document becomes law. Council sessions are held the first Monday of each month.

There were no editorial changes in the document itself, a booklet that describes and defines terminology and sets enforcement of the code. Schedules were made bigger and more legible, according to Planning Commission chairperson Marcia Horch.

Mediterranean Sea Reportedly Dying

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Only massive international efforts can keep pollution from killing every living thing in the Mediterranean Sea except bacteria and viruses, French oceanographer Jacques Cousteau warns.

If the pollution continues, Cousteau told a news conference at United Nations headquarters Monday, the people of Barcelona, Marseilles, Nice, Genoa, Naples and the rest of the coast of southern Europe might have to move dozens of miles inland.

"The Mediterranean is so sick that only a carefully coordinated project on a massive scale can avert the disaster," the 65-year-old ocean explorer said. He estimated the effort would take seven to 15 years if launched immediately.

"If the Mediterranean continues to be intoxicated to the point of dying, the only organisms that will survive will be bacteria and viruses, and it is too frightening to imagine what this could mean to the people in the nearby areas," Cousteau said.

Cousteau would not set a time for the Mediterranean's death, but he said serious harm already has been done. Coastal areas have been completely depleted of fish, he reported, and the open ocean, once at least seven or eight times less fertile than the Mediterranean, is now 15 to 20 times more productive in terms of fish catches.

and spelling was corrected in some places.

The only major change was in the recodification of two parcels of land from agricultural to R-8 (medium density residential) for single and two-family dwellings.

One tract is owned by a land developer who had allegedly notified council of his intention to establish dwelling places within the village, and the other by Bob Metzger, a member of council and the Planning Commission.

The plan would divide the village into eight zoning districts:

Medium density residential, undeveloped residential, local business, light manufacturing, agricultural, flood plain, open space, and mobile home.

Already established businesses and residences which do not fall into their zoned categories will not be changed by the plan, council pointed out.

In an effort to clarify the changes, the ordinance booklet and color-coded schematic will be on display in the Williamsport First National Bank.

Councilmen have called for a public hearing 7:30 p.m., Tuesday, Dec. 16, in the American Legion Hall in an effort to solicit citizen input for uses of federal HUD money which may become available next year.

Councilmen are looking for projects that would benefit low-income families and senior citizens.

A second public hearing will be necessary before pre-application may be made for the funds. Deadline for filing is Feb. 10.

Interested citizens at the hearing will be asked to serve on the steering committee composed of councilmen Harman Lemming, John Reynolds, Gene Smith, and Lonzie Rigsby.

In other business, councilmen accepted the resignation of town marshal Patrick Dawson and promptly appointed LeRoy Newsome to the post.

The Rev. Newsome, who vowed to crack-down on chronic traffic offenders in the village, is pastor of the Williamsport Church of Christ in Christian Union.

Post Office Urges Customers To Observe Mailing Dates

Harry Payne, Circleville, Postmaster urges customers to observe the suggested Christmas mailing dates to insure pre-Christmas delivery of parcels and cards. Christmas parcels should be mailed before December 10 and all greeting cards should be mailed no later than December 15.

In addition to timely delivery of Christmas greetings, public cooperation in mailing early has other advantages. Postmaster Payne said, "It eliminates back-logs in mail processing and transportation, reduces need for postal overtime expenditures, and enables a greater number of postal employees to enjoy Christmas holiday with their families."

The following tips are offered in preparing Christmas parcels: Two strong grocery cartons telescoped together make a suitable mailing carton. Use plenty of packaging material inside the parcel. Enclose a paper showing the sender and recipient's name and address inside the parcel. Use heavy twine and double-knot where the twine intersects. Print the return and delivery address in bold one inch letters on one side of the parcel. Insure but do not over insure parcels. Reimbursement for damage or loss will be based on the actual replacement cost. After December 10 consider Special Delivery, Priority Mail and Express Mail service for mailing Christmas parcels.

One 10-cents postage is required on sealed or unsealed greeting cards. Lines start forming at postal service windows at lunch time and near the close of the business day. To avoid the back-up, try to buy stamps in mid-morning and mid-afternoon. Use ZIP Codes in the return and mail delivery address. Remember, undeliverable Christmas cards will be returned if the envelope bears the return address of the sender.

Guerillas Grab Train

BEILEN, The Netherlands (AP) — At least two armed men today seized a local train with about 130 persons aboard, attached dynamite to the outside and demanded that they be flown to an unknown destination, police said.

A police spokesman said the gunmen also made other demands and had set an ultimatum, but he declined to give further details. He said the hijackers have released two women and a child since seizing the train.

The hijackers were thought to be South Moluccan extremists, who are demanding independence from Indonesia for the Molucca Islands in Southeast Asia, police said.

The train was halted at Beilen, 90 miles from Amsterdam, and surrounded by police. The gunmen were reported in the front coach of the train with the hostages. Police said they blocked off the windows with newspapers.

The train was en route from Groningen to Zwolle, in central Holland, and the seizure cut the rail connection between the two cities. Police said the gunmen shot at an oncoming train and forced it to stop. Nobody was reported hit.

Some 40,000 South Moluccans reside in the Netherlands. Militants among these protest the 1949 incorporation of their native islands, north of Australia, into the Indonesian Republic and demand their own nation.

In April, Dutch authorities arrested 10 South Moluccans who admitted plotting to kidnap Queen Juliana of the Netherlands.

2 Men Sought In Holdup Probe

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Three search continues for two of the three Columbus area men charged in the Oct. 8 armed robbery of a branch of the Buckeye Federal Savings & Loan Co.

Thomas W. Kitchens, special agent-in-charge of the FBI for central Ohio, announced Monday the arrest of the other man—Robert R. Hurt, 27.

He was taken before U.S. Magistrate Mark R. Abel, who set bond at $50,000 and remanded him to the custody of federal marshals. Hurt was apprehended at a residence on Williams Rd., the FBI said.

Kitchens identified the other formally accused men as George L. Barido and William H. Wiles.

Sea World Eyes Preparation Costs

AURORA, Ohio (AP)—The Sea World of Ohio marine-life park says it will spend more than $700,000 getting ready for the 1976 season, including construction of a covered picnic pavilion, two new shows, a Great White Shark display, expanded concessions and educational facilities for 1976.

A Sea World spokesman said Monday $345,000 has been earmarked for the construction of a new administrative building, warehouse and veterinarian lab and animal treatment facility.

He has prior police officer experience in Bainbridge and Dayton, and is currently a student at the Circleville Bible College.

He was placed on the customary six-month probationary period.

Councilmen tabled a motion to jointly purchase Plectron alert monitors for the volunteer fire department with township authority, pending a vote of the trustees.

However, councilmen generally seemed in favor of the acquisition of the 15 units, which cost $144.

Present at the meeting were Mayor Paul Long, clerk-treasurer George Ann Puffinbarger, and councilmen Bob Metzger, Harman Lemming, Jack Brayshaw, John Reynolds, Gene Smith, and Lonzie Rigsby.

The next meeting is set for Jan. 5 at 7 p.m.

More than four inches of rain fell over a portion of the mountains in Washington, causing rapid rises on local rivers. Some tributaries draining from the mountain areas flooded, and today some waters were expected to crest at two feet above the banks.

The only other major remnants of recent winter storms are in Wyoming and Colorado. Gusty winds and blowing snow were expected to slow travel on Wyoming highways, and travelers advisories were still in effect this morning. A high wind warning was in effect for the Colorado mountains.

Temperatures dropped into the frost range early today as far south as northern Louisiana and northwestern Florida.

Clear skies covered most of the southern and central plains as well as much of the southeast. A few rain showers lingered along the southern Atlantic Coast but they were light and insignificant.

Skies remained cloudy along the northern states from the Pacific Coast to New England, with snow flurries scattered along the Great Lakes, the northern plains and the northern Rockies.

Temperature extremes over the nation ranged from 11 degrees below zero at Duluth, Minn. to 74 at Key West, Fla.

Informal sources said the council probably would be convened after Fernandez is sworn in to present three names to the king to succeed Premier Carlos Arias Navarro. There have been reports that Arias has resigned and that the king has accepted the resignation.

Tree Theft Charges Levelled

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — Six persons charged in connection with alleged illegal harvesting of Christmas trees without a permit were bound over Monday to face a variety of charges in Boulder County District Court.

Two of the six, one of them from Lima, Ohio, were released from custody after posting personal recognizance bonds. The other four remained in Boulder County Jail in lieu of bonds ranging to $50,000.

A seventh person arrested in the case, a 17-year-old, has been turned over to juvenile authorities.

The seven were arrested in connection with what a sheriff's department spokesman said was the felling of at least 5,000 trees, 20 to 50 feet tall, on federal and private land about 45 miles northwest of Boulder.

Mickey Sterling, 28, of Lima, Ohio, and Thomas Fichtel, 28, of Syracuse, N.Y., and Lyons, Colo., were released on $10,000 personal recognizance bonds on charges of conspiracy to commit criminal mischief.

Still in custody on charges of conspiracy to commit criminal mischief, criminal mischief and attempted felony theft were Duke Baird, 24, of Florence, Ala., and Richard D. Craig, 37, of Estes Park, Colo.

Charged with second-degree burglary, attempted felony theft, criminal mischief and conspiracy to commit criminal mischief were Ray Henry Ostermann, 49, and Steven Ostermann, 22, both of Santa Monica, Calif. Bond for the older Ostermann was set at $50,000. Bond for the younger of the two men was $12,000.

The sheriff's department said the trees had been cut on land inside the Rocky Mountain National Park and Roosevelt National Forest and on private land.

Snow Turns To Rainfall

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The snow that buried the Northwest over the past few days was replaced by rain Monday.

More than four inches of rain fell over a portion of the mountains in Washington, causing rapid rises on local rivers. Some tributaries draining from the mountain areas flooded, and today some waters were expected to crest at two feet above the banks.

The only other major remnants of recent winter storms are in Wyoming and Colorado. Gusty winds and blowing snow were expected to slow travel on Wyoming highways, and travelers advisories were still in effect this morning. A high wind warning was in effect for the Colorado mountains.

Temperatures dropped into the frost range early today as far south as northern Louisiana and northwestern Florida.

Clear skies covered most of the southern and central plains as well as much of the southeast. A few rain showers lingered along the southern Atlantic Coast but they were light and insignificant.

Skies remained cloudy along the northern states from the Pacific Coast to New England, with snow flurries scattered along the Great Lakes, the northern plains and the northern Rockies.

Temperature extremes over the nation ranged from 11 degrees below zero at Duluth, Minn. to 74 at Key West, Fla.

Stone Company Struck By Union

FINDLAY, Ohio (AP) — Some 100 members of the International Union of Operating Engineers struck the National Lime and Stone Co. on Monday after negotiators failed to reach agreement on a new contract.

Talks had been under way since September, a company spokesman said, but broke off with the strike. No new sessions were scheduled, he said.

The company operates plants and quarries in Findlay, Lima, Delaware, Buckland and Rimer. Wages and benefits apparently are the major stumbling blocks in negotiations.

Humane Society Suggests Pet As Ideal Gift

Thinking of what kind of gift to purchase for your children or family for Christmas? The Pickaway County Humane Society suggests a small pet from the County Animal Shelter.

The Society has recently been publicizing a pet of the week, in which a particular canine is kept an extended period of time giving county residents the opportunity to obtain a homeless animal, which would most likely make a wonderful family pet.

In addition to informing the public of the pets available, the Humane Society wishes to make the community aware that there is a humane society, dog shelter, cemetery and other available services.

The Society also wants to educate the public with information concerning laws governing the safety and welfare of animals.

According to Tom Tootle, president of the Humane Society, "We want to promote the idea of spending a small sum of money for a pet that would possible be put to sleep, instead of purchasing a breed for an enormous amount of money."

The cost, of the pet housed at the county shelter, would include the license fee and board bill. The pet of the week is also vaccinated. No pet of the week is put to sleep.

Another inexpensive Christmas gift suggestion for an adult or young person would be a membership to the Humane Society.

Incorporated in 1946, The Pickaway County Humane Society is an organization for the prevention of cruelty and inhumane treatment to children and animals.

Any monies collected by the Society are used for expenses of the organization which include the animal cemetery and providing the humane officers and warden with requirements that cannot be supplied by the county. No funds are expended for personal purposes.

Persons wishing more information concerning the Humane Society or the pet of the week call 474-3030.

Ashville Council OKs Pay Hikes

Three pay ordinances were passed after third readings by Ashville Village councilmen Monday night.

The ordinances, which will take affect Jan. 1, increase the hourly rate of Street Superintendent Roy Mettler by 25 cents an hour and the annual salaries of Water and Sewer Superintendent Steve Cook and assistant Water and Sewer Superintendent William Haddox by six per cent.

The action comes after the salaries of Police Chief Alva Boyer and patrolman William Pontious were increased, again by separate ordinances, last month.

After meeting with John Owens of Van Camp Contracting Co. for a progress report of the Jefferson Ave. and Station St. improvement projects, council agreed to make a change in the original plan.

It was decided to extend the curbing and center island of Jefferson Ave. 20 feet south of Pearl Alley on both sides of Jefferson Ave.

Council also awarded the Newman Insurance Agency a three-year contract for the overall insurance of village-owned equipment and buildings.

Yearly premium will be $2,884. The next meeting of council will be Dec. 15 at 7 p.m.

Present at the meeting were President of Council Nolo Gulick, who presided in the absence of Mayor Max Cormany, clerk-treasurer Raymond Lindsey, and councilmen Marvin Hicks, Richard Cook, Gary Throp, and Charles Morrison.

Trading Peace For Hot Air

The news that the United Nations peace force will remain as a buffer in the Mideast is welcome news, despite the fact that the Palestine Liberation Organization will have a chance to harangue the Security Council.

Any extension of peace in the Mideast is worth having to listen to that group spew out its hatred for Israel. The debate, like most U.N. debates will likely solve nothing, but, as Winston Churchill once put it, "Jaw, jaw is better than war, war."

We can only hope that the six-month renewal of the force will see more easing of tensions in the tinderbox area, with no explosions to again set the world on edge.

Rusty Is No Cynic, But . . .

NEW YORK (KFS) — "Oh, hey!" exclaimed our 14-year-old son, who was reading the TV highlights — "The Waltons" have another great disaster coming up for Thanksgiving. Get this: John Boy suffers a serious head accident when his father neglects to repair a machine and he pretends not to be hurt because of an examination, but when his vision is impaired doctors fear for his sight . . .

"I can hardly wait to see what they'll have for Christmas!"

Son Rusty is no cynic but, like many kids his age, he has now more interest in poking fun at TV than in watching it with the wide-eyed absorption of a mispent childhood. As the Nielsen ratings show, he is not alone. Americans, particularly the young, are kicking the TV addiction in massive numbers. Between one and 1.5 million fewer households are tuning in TV nightly compared with the same period last year, even though one million new households bought their first sets during the past year.

KIDS KID THE MEDIUM

What are these Americans doing with all that spare time? Some, like Rusty, may be relishing their newfound freedom by kidding the medium they once loved. Writer-wit Goodman Ace may have summed up that segment the other night when he left a Saturday dinner party early, apologizing: "Sorry, but I have to go home and turn off Howard Cosell." Others are reading books and buying record numbers of records and stereo sets. Still others, if we are to believe the unbelievably erotic pictures we now see on the newsstands, are spending most of their time in bed with a friend or friends.

There are all manner of theories on why television is losing the eyes of America. Some people believe the "family viewing hours" have resulted in the kind of pablum that turns adults (and their sets) off. Others say that the novelty of TV has simply worn off the long-time viewers, and they want live action. It has even been mentioned that late-night supermarket shopping is pulling people out of the home.

But probably the most telling of all studies on the matter is the one conducted in New York last month, which revealed that TV commercials are not "believable," even to many children, who — after a certain age — actually regard them with some hostility. Since so much of the television schedule is composed of disruptive commercials, the effect may be to saturate the accompanying programming with the stamp of skepticism.

The study on video advertising — conducted by Columbia University professor of psychology and linguistics Dr. Thomas G. Bever, and Martin L. Smith, co-founder of Smith-Greenland, a N. Y. advertising agency — came to the following conclusions:

Most children up to age 6 regard all TV content, including commercials, as pure entertainment.

However, children of 11 and 12 have as much difficulty as adults in dealing with a conflict caused by society's apparent acceptance of sometimes misleading commercials.

Children between 7 and 10 experience "serious conflicts." While misleading advertising is not the only agent of hypocrisy in their lives, they see it as the first socially accepted one. So, beginning at age 7, "children in general probably are as skeptical of advertising as adults are."

Discussing the age category, 7 to 10, Smith states, "These children face increasing conflicts as they perceive various forms of adult hypocrisy. A child can dismiss his personal experiences with the deceit of individual adults — but realizing that society allows for institutional hypocrisy violates moral precepts he has been taught."

Dr. Bever adds, "And the experience of coming to terms with institutionalized hypocrisy can have quite serious effects at that age." At about age 10, summed up the study, children resolve the conflict through an intense hostility toward advertising. "They simplify the problem by accusing all advertising, like many other aspects of the adult world, to be a total pack of lies."

'I'M PROTECTED'

It's sad, but apparently true. When I showed Rusty the results of the survey, he pronounced it 89 per cent more effective than the other leading polls. And when I asked him if TV commercials had caused him serious conflicts, he admitted that although they once had bothered him a great deal, he no longer really cared: "You see, I am protected by this invisible protective shield . . ."

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — David Lilienthal's cool control belied his distress. "I'm mad as hell this morning," he said, rising from his desk and handing his listener a brief article clipped from the morning newspaper.

The story told of plans to erect near Belleville, Ill. a $237 million pilot plant for the conversion of coal to synthetic crude oil and "natural" gas. Government and private industry would split the initial costs.

"What in hell have we been doing these past 24 years," said Lilienthal, who as chairman of the Tennessee Valley Authority and first Atomic Energy Commission chairman, learned you must always be on guard against inertia.

He referred to Page 246, "Volume Three, The Journals of David E. Lilienthal," in which he describes the technology of coal conversion and relates that a private group was ready to build a much larger plant. That was in 1951.

The technology was available then, he said. Informed people knew an alternative to oil was desirable. An investment banking house, Eberstadt & Co., was willing to raise $400 million if assured by government of minimum prices.

"If we meant business that plant would have been built, and through private financing," he said. Other plants would have followed, costs would have fallen, and today we might have had a "very comfortable" alternative to foreign oil.

Now, in the midst of crisis, he said, we finally get moving on a much smaller plant. There was bite but not scorn in his quiet voice. "There is a timidity, a lack of resolution in the decision centers," he said deliberately.

For the past 20 years Lilienthal, 76, has headed his own company, Development and Resources Corp., a unique concern that combines private enterprise and public goals in the large scale, integrated development of natural resources.

One glittering example is the Khuzestan Province of Iran, as large as Illinois, whose land and people were made to blossom by the development of water power, electricity, irrigation, farming, industry, health care facilities and education.

You don't get things done by writing reports, said Lilienthal, briefly recalling his TVA days, when he learned that nothing fails like disbelief and that action itself, even in a small way, always is more convincing than talk.

"We're constipated by reports," he said. In his opinion we're also paralyzed by negativism, and embued with an attitude unbecoming Americans, that problems are too big to handle.

"Our leaders, public and private, are timid and slow and this becomes contagious," he said.

"We're holding ourselves back. If we let ourselves go we have the human energy and resources to do anything we want to do. Human energy distinguishes this country." This nation, he said, is underdeveloped, yet we act as if we can do no more.

"Energy is a basic characteristic of a country," he said. "If you've got it in the people they produce the electricity and the gas — and the food and the rest of the country's needs."

He stopped abruptly, fearful he said that people might think he was preaching. Preaching and moralizing, you gathered, were about as useless to him as computer printouts that never were read.

Instead, he said, he'd rather talk about specifics first, generalities later. It is in doing something specific — not talking about it or reporting it or analyzing it — that sets the example to follow, he said.

He gave an illustration: His company had access to a roomful of reports in 1961 that told why commercial coal wouldn't be found in certain parts of the Rocky Mountains. A man investigated. "He walked and walked and walked." He found it.

If we must write reports, he said, we should at least make them appealing not to statisticians but to businessmen "who will be willing to stake their money or reputation or company — reports a man will move on."

Referring to admonitions to save rather than use energy, he declared: "What this country needs is more, not less energy. We can't dally. If we do we'll become more and more dependent on foreign oil."

We cannot, he emphasized, wait 24 years more. "In order for the nation to have a major reliance on coal for fuel, feedstocks, gas, gasoline and oil, we need more than just a relatively little plant in Illinois."

He concluded: "Momentum is the secret of American development. If we wait we lose it. I intend to speak out about it. This is the opening."

Xenia Editor Emeritus Dies

XENIA, Ohio (AP) — Funeral services will be held Wednesday for Raymond A. Higgins, editor emeritus of the Xenia Gazette, who died Saturday at the age of 78.

Higgins joined the Gazette in 1916 as a reporter and worked his way up through managing editor, manager and executive editor. He retired as managing editor in the 1950s, continuing as executive editor until 1968, when he assumed the post of editor emeritus.

He remained active with the paper, spending several hours a day in the newsroom and writing a twice-weekly column, until undergoing surgery last July.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Tuesday, Dec. 2, the 336th day of 1975. There are 29 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1942, a nuclear chain reaction was demonstrated for the first time by scientists working on a secret project at the University of Chicago.

On this date:

In 1804, Napoleon Bonaparte crowned himself Emperor of France. In 1805, the armies of Napoleon were victorious in the Battle of Austerlitz in what is now Czechoslovakia.

In 1823, President James Monroe outlined the Monroe Doctrine against European expansion in the Western Hemisphere.

In 1956, Fidel Castro and a band of followers landed in Cuba to try to overthrow the Batista government.

In 1960, the head of the Anglican Church, the Archbishop of Canterbury, broke church precedent by visiting Pope John the 23rd at the Vatican.

In 1969, 54 persons died in a flash fire in a home for the aged in Notre Dame du Lac, Quebec.

Ten years ago: The U.S. Aircraft Carrier Enterprise launched air strikes over Vietnam, becoming the first nuclear-powered ship ever to enter combat.

Five years ago: NATO defense ministers, meeting in Brussels, adopted plans to bolster military forces during the 1970's, in view of a buildup of Communist Bloc strength.

One year ago: The Japanese Parliament named Takeo Miki to succeed the incumbent premier, Kakuei Tanaka.

Today's birthdays: Actress Julie Harris is 50 years old. Actress Maggie Smith is 41.

Thought for today: No amount of planning ahead will ever take the place of dumb luck — The Wall Street Journal.

Bicentennial footnote: 200 years ago today, early in the American Revolution, the Continental Congress ordered ships to sail to the Chesapeake Bay and capture or destroy all British vessels.

Reagan Would Help Ford

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Ronald Reagan says he has differences with President Ford but would support Ford's campaign if the President defeats him for the Republican nomination in 1976.

Reagan also flatly ruled out the possibility that he would launch a third party campaign for the presidency.

Appearing on ABC-TV's "Issues and Answers" program Sunday, the former California governor repeated his pledge not to criticize Ford or do anything to divide the Republican party.

But after the 30-minute telecast, he listed differences with Ford during an impromptu news conference.

"I differ with him over the negotiations to give away the Panama Canal. I differ . . . on loosening the trade restraints with Cuba. I think there's a strange inconsistency in the secretary of state . . . I do not believe enough is being done to fight inflation," he said.

During the television program, Reagan said: "If President Ford wins, I will support him."

But he refused to give a similar pledge of support to Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller or any other potential GOP nominee.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Is there any hope that a child with autism will ever get well?

Mrs. B. Z., N.Y.

Dear Mrs. Z.:

Autism is a highly complex emotional disorder. A child burdened by this condition seems to live in a world far removed from reality.

Little or no communication exists between the child and family and friends.

Some autistic children are unable to acquire the simple skills that come so easily to other children.

Many other behavioral attitudes distinguish the autistic child from others. There was a time when doctors, educators and parents were in total despair about this condition.

Today, there seems to be some encouraging light on the horizon. The enlarged patterns of psychological testing reveal more and more areas in the child's personality. With this knowledge, and the new drugs that are now available, hope can replace despair.

I truly believe that the destiny of these children is anything but hopeless. Your sustained courage coupled with the support of educators and psychiatrists and with the newer chemical forms of treatment offer greater hope than ever for the autistic child.

When I walk into a lighted area from a dark room I get sharp shooting pains in my eyes. My eyes have been examined. I was told they are normal.

Miss R. T., Ohio

Dear Miss T.:

In the absence of any disease of the eyes, this symptom, known as "photophobia," does not have medical importance.

It is not unusual for people who are fair-complexioned and blonde to be annoyed by sudden changes in the intensity of light.

The simple remedy, of course, is to wear dark glasses when shifting from a dark room to a light room, thus giving the eyes a chance to adjust themselves to the change.

I injured my ear and caused bleeding. Can this be the cause of my mild deafness?

Mr. B. L., Wash.

Dear Mr. L.:

If just the outer ear canal was injured and the eardrum was not hurt, deafness could not occur.

Sometimes, a small amount of blood may accumulate against the drum and temporarily limit its movement and thus interfere with hearing.

You must not make any attempt to remove this encrusted blood yourself.

Postal Strike Seen Over

OTTAWA, Canada (AP) — Striking postal workers were expected to vote tonight to end their 42-day-old strike despite their leaders' recommendation that they reject a tentative contract agreement.

The agreement was reached Saturday, and the 22,000 members of the Canadian Union of Postal Workers were meeting tonight to vote on the proposals.

Arnold Gould, the union's national director for the Ontario region, said the national executive recommended that the strikers reject the proposed contract. But an estimated 2,700 union members have already gone back to work, and sentiment in favor of acceptance was report strong among the rest.

Results of the vote will not be known until early Tuesday. Postal officials said if the strike ends, it might take the rest of the week to get the postal system back into full operation.

Postal officials said announcements would be made later in the week about the mailing of Christmas cards and parcels.

Union To Seek Shorter Hours

CLEVELAND (AP) — Communications Workers of America will make a shorter work week a major goal in 1977 contract negotiations, an official told delegates from Ohio, Michigan and Kentucky today.

Martin J. Hughes, international vice president, also told the conference of about 300 delegates and alternates that with about 25,000 of the Bell System's 90,000 long distance operators using a new push-button system, one can expect loss of about 40,000 jobs when the system is complete.

Further personnel cuts can be expected when electronic switching is available for local service as well as for long distance, he said.

Electric Railway Gets Trolley Car

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — After an 18 month delay, the Waterfront Electric Railway finally received its 51-year-old Portuguese trolley car which the owners hope to put to use here by May.

The car, originally expected in June 1974, was delayed by the political crisis in Portugal. It arrived two weeks ago minus an engine, but otherwise in good repair, and needs only a paint job and cleaning before becoming a part of a historic railroad in a proposed city park.

The car, one of only eight in the world, is the dream of Toledo trolley buff Willard Edson, president of Waterfront Electric, the local group that purchased the $8,300 relic. It was abandoned for use in Oporto, Portugal because of "body structural failure."

Working motors could not be installed on the car at the time of purchase because of chassis problems and Edson was unsure whether the motors would be shipped with the car. The motors were ordered after the car arrived two weeks ago.

The interior of the 28-foot-long, 23-passenger trolley is finished in Spanish mahogany and decorative rattan, Edson said, and has deep, semiconvertible windows that open below the armrest of the seat. A broken window

Debate Teams Eye Food Supply Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Ford administration's views on world food supply management, generally oriented to free markets, is being fed by the Agriculture Department to 18,000 high-school debate teams.

A spokesman said the views, included in a 15-page YSDA booklet, represent "by and large" the White House position on international food reserves. It cost about $4,000 to prepare 100,000 copies. Five are being sent to each of the schools, which include both public and private institutions.

Claude W. Gifford, director of the department's Office of Communication which is handling the project, said in an enclosed note to debaters and coaches that the report was developed "in response to requests from across the country" for material related to the 1975-76 debate topic: "Resolved: the development and allocation of scarce world re-

Cincy's First Woman Mayor Follows First Black Mayor

CINCINNATI (AP)—Cincinnati's conservative reputation faded further as its first regularly elected woman mayor succeeded the city's first black mayor.

"We women have made small progress in obtaining progress in legislative bodies and even less in the realm of higher offices such as mayor and governor," said Mrs. Bobbie Sterne, after she was sworn Monday succeeding retiring Mayor Theodore M. Berry.

"It is therefore another landmark in the effort of women to become equal partners with men in the responsibilities of running our government."

The office is largely ceremonial since the city manager is the chief executive of the city. Mrs. Sterne, a member of Cincinnati City Council since 1971, was elected by the Independent Charterite Democrat Coalition majority on the nine-member board.

Former Ohio Rep. James Luken, brother of former U.S. Rep. Thomas Luken D-Ohio, was selected to serve the second half of the two year term. Th coalition unseated Republicans in 1971 after 14 years of domination and has won the last three straight elections.

Ceremonial or not, Mayor Sterne is a battler and an advocate of the Equal Rights Amendment for women.

Mayor Sterne, 55, is a registered nurse, wife of a physician and mother of two grown daughters. She has been deeply involved in virtually every issue facing the city and has been on the winning side in such projects as furnishing free breakfasts and lunches at schools for poor children, better health care, opening public service jobs to women in city hall and in the police and fire departments, preservation of neighborhoods, parks and monuments.

She was a pioneer in helping the city take over the local transit company.

Mrs. Sterne legally changed her first name from Laverne to Bobbie after the Hamilton County Board of Elections refused to allow her to use "Bobbie" on the 1969 ballot. Her protest was disallowed by the Ohio Supreme Court.

She said she plans to continue to seek reforms but "without the rhetoric of sweeping promises of which we have no hope of fulfilling."

Gen. William S. Smith, 1830-1916, born at Tarlton, Pickaway County, invented the air-filled caisson used in building underwater foundations for bridges, and solved the problem of erecting skyscrapers on the filled-in ground along Chicago's lake front.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Deaf Dad's 'I Do' Breaks Up Ceremony

DEAR ABBY: You asked if any of your readers had ever witnessed a wedding at which the minister asked, "If there be anyone present who knows any just cause why this couple shall not lawfully be joined together, let him speak now or forever hold his peace," and someone actually spoke up:

Well, I have. It was at my wedding. When the minister spoke those words, my father, who was terribly nervous and is slightly hard of hearing, stepped forward and in a clear, strong voice said, "I DO!"

Poor darling thought the minister had asked, "Who gives this woman in marriage?"

I knew my father had been rehearsing that "I do" for weeks, so I quietly said, "Not now, Daddy . . ." But it was too late; the church was already rocking with laughter. Sign me . . .

BLUSHING BRIDE

DEAR ABBY: Four girls who work in an insurance office complained that they sometimes ran out of work to do, but their boss doesn't permit them to manicure their fingernails, do needlepoint or read magazines. They have to LOOK busy.

They asked, "What should we do?" and you, Dear Abby, the very paragon of honesty, suggested that if they like their jobs, they should keep "looking" busy.

That's not like you, Abby, and it's not honest.

There are always extra things to do around an office. You should have advised the secretaries to find such work and honestly do it.

Why didn't you?

CLERGYMAN READER

DEAR CLERGYMAN: Because the secretaries insisted that there was absolutely no work for them to do. But you make a good point, which didn't occur to me until several readers suggested that the girls obtain permission to do typing for charitable organizations.

DEAR ABBY: While a young couple was visiting us the other evening, my wife pulled out her breast and nursed our 6-week-old son in front of our guests. It bothered me, and I told her so after they went home.

My wife asked the wife of the other couple if it was okay for her to nurse the baby in front of her husband, but she didn't ask if it was okay with me. If she had, I would have told her it wasn't okay and she should seek the privacy of the bedroom.

My wife thinks I am ridiculous and old-fashioned. What do you think?

EMBARRASSED

DEAR EMBARRASSED: Your wife should have asked you and respected your wishes.

DEAR ABBY: Thanks for your column on fire prevention. A friend told me that when she had a fire, she was in such a panic when she called the fire department that she couldn't remember her OWN address. Now she keeps the number of the fire department and her own address near every phone. It is also vital for babysitters.

Cleveland School Suit Challenged

CLEVELAND (AP) — The NAACP suit charging the Cleveland school board with promoting segregation policies is being challenged by patrons as well as the school board.

Before Judge Frank J. Battisti of U.S. District Court began hearing the second week of deliberations in a trial based on the suit, he was to hold a hearing today on a motion that 10 black parents in the school district be allowed to intervene in the case.

The parents have asked permission to intervene because they do not want the NAACP to represent them and they oppose busing as a way to integrate the schools.

Battisti already has certified that the NAACP suit is a classaction suit, filed on behalf of the 72,000 black children in the district. The civil rights group has proposed crosstown busing as a method of integrating the schools.

In a related action, Tony Richison, president of the inner-city Hough Area Community Council, says he has started a petition drive to collect signatures of parents who oppose busing.

Jay B. White, lawyer for the 10 parents who want to intervene in the trial, said that the parents feel their children are receiving quality education in the public schools and that their constitutional rights are not being violated.

Traffic Toll Below Mark

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The nation's Thanksgiving holiday weekend traffic death toll reached 357, far below the National Safety Council's predictions, at the close of The Associated Press's tally today.

The National Safety Council had estimated that between 450 and 500 persons would die in traffic crashes during the weekend that began at 6 p.m. ocal time Thursday and ended at midnight Sunday.

That prediction was the council's lowest for Thanksgiving in seven years.

"Motorists have reduced their driving speed, recognizing that reduced speed pays off, not only in savings of fuel, but in greater driving comfort and increased safety for everyone on the road," Vincent Tofany, president of the safety council, said.

Last year, The AP counted 504 highway fatalities during the Thanksgiving holiday period.

Collection Agencies Under Fire

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A civil lawsuit now working its way through the lower courts may significantly expand the protection consumers have from deceptive practices, consumer lawyers believe.

The case has not yet reached a trial in the Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Court. But trial attorneys in Cleveland and the attorney general's office here both say that a pretrial decision already rendered could be a landmark in expanding the scope of the state Consumer Sales Practices Act.

At the least, the lawyers say, it would bring collection agencies under the act, which forbids deceptive practices or acts.

"That's probably the narrowest meaning of it," said Asst. Atty. Gen. Jay McKirahan. In broader interpretations, the decision implies that the consumer sales act goes much farther than the immediate buyer and immediate seller. The broadest possible application is not known.

"It's a very important decision," said Carolyn McTighe of the Cleveland Legal Aid Society, the trial attorney.

The suit was filed by Mrs. Helen Liggins against the May Co., a Cleveland department store, and Professional Services Unlimited Inc., the store's collection agency.

The class action suit asks for an injunction against deceptive collection practices allegedly used by the agency.

The agency asked for dismissal of the lawsuit, contending it was not covered by the consumer sales act. The agency said the May Co. was the only party in the transaction covered by the act.

But in a lengthy opinion which has since been chosen for publication in state law books, Judge Bernard Friedman rejected the motion.

He said the law was intended "to prohibit certain types of consumer practices...from the initial inception between the supplier and the consumer until the relationship terminates.

"In other words, that relationship continues from the initial inception between consumer and supplier until, as in this case, the debt is fully paid," he said.

Judge Friedman said, in effect, that when the collection agency took over the debt, it also took over the legal obligations of the May Co. under the consumer practices act.

He said to rule otherwise "would defeat the very purposes for which the consumer practices act was enacted."

The ruling has not been appealed since there has been no final decision in the trial court. If Mrs. Liggins wins, McKirahan said he expects an appeal, and "that will be the major issue."

Because of the importance of the case, the attorney general has joined the action on Mrs. Liggins' side.

The suit alleges that two practices by Professional Services are deceptive and thus fall under the act.

The suit said the firm sends a notice called a "post-judgment pregarishment form," telling the debtor that a court judgment has been obtained and that wages will be garnished unless payment is made immediately.

In reality, the suit alleges, no judgment has been obtained and it would be many months before a garnishment could be obtained.

The other practice alleged is sending a demand for payment titled "marshal enforcement form," carrying the picture of a man wearing a badge.

"It implies that there's some official backing to that form," said Ms. McTighe, who uses the title by preference. In reality, she said, it carries no more weight than any other dunning letter.

McKirahan said the state admits that the people involved do owe money to the May Co. and the collection agency. But he argues that fact does not authorize deceptive collection tactics.

Taxpayers Ask IRS

This column of questions and answers of federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

(Q) The county widened the street where I live, and everyone on the street was assessed for the costs. Can I get any deduction for this?

(A) No. Any assessment for local benefits such as streets, sidewalks, sewers, etc., which usually increases the value of your property, is not deductible as taxes. Instead, you add the assessment to the cost basis of your property. If you later sell the house, this addition to the basis may reduce the gain on your property, and subsequently reduce the taxes you pay on the gain from the sale.

(Q) I am divorced and have custody of my six year old son. I help support him, but my former husband also makes child support payments. Which of us is entitled to the dependency deduction for the child?

(A) Generally, the parent who has custody of the child for the greater part of the year is entitled to the dependency exemption, but there are exceptions.

Your husband may get the exemption if the divorce decree specifies that he is entitled to it, and if he provided at least $600 of the annual child support.

Also, he may get the exemption if he provided $1,200 or more in child support, and you cannot clearly establish that you provided more.

(Q) I work in a factory and have the choice of receiving free meals at the company cafeteria or receiving a cash allowance for them. Would I have to include the cash in my income?

(A) Yes. Any cash allowance from your employer for meals must be included in your income. Meals your employer furnishes free are usually not income if they are furnished on the business premises, and if they are furnished for your employer's benefit. However, if you have a choice of accepting either the free meals or a cash allowance, and choose the meals, you must include their value in your income.

(Q) I had a car accident and my automobile insurance will pay for the medical care of everyone injured in my car. Can I deduct the medical insurance portion of my auto insurance as a medical expense?

(A) No. Since the medical insurance covers anyone in your car, not just your spouse and dependents, it is not deductible as a medical expense.

Pizza, Subs, Spaghetti Are Giovanni's Specialties

ASSISTING as the cashier is Carol Anderson. Carol assists behind the fountain and helps make pizza. Randy is seen preparing one of his mouthwatering combinations pizzas. Giovanni's offers 12 varieties of pizza, subs and spaghetti.

Twenty-one-year-old Randy Gilmore has been preparing pizzas since he was 16-years-old. Pizza is not an experiment or a game with Randy, it's a part of his life, which is proven with the success of his own business establishment, Giovanni's, located at 114 S. Court St.

Whether one eats pizza at the restaurant or takes it home, one can hardly wait to take a bite of a pepperoni pizza topped with mushrooms, green peppers, onions and even anchovies. Or maybe a submarine sandwich, which has got to be the best in town, or maybe some of Giovanni's famous spaghetti covered with mouth-watering sauce and meatballs.

Giovanni's offers 12 varieties, in either a 10, 12 or 15-inch pizza including cheese, pepperoni, Italian Sausage, mushrooms, mangoes, anchovies, bacon, olives, onion, banana peppers, hot pepper seeds and combination.

Gilmore also offers salad, beverages, and party snacks to go along with the Italian specialties.

Gilmore worked at The Tastee Shoppe, Pasquale's and Giovanni's (under former owner Dave Brown) before acquiring the business in March 1973.

"The parlor has undergone some remodeling" according to Gilmore, "We've added more booths making the seating capacity 59, new carpeting and some re-arranging of minor things here and there."

Also added is the availability of delivery of the pizza for a minimal charge, and a discount special for parties.

Including Gilmore, nine people are employed in the preparation and selling of the pizzas, including Carol Anderson, Mike Anderson, Jan Hull, Greg (Ducky) Clements, Louise Clements, Tom England, Monet LaGrow and Burt Keener.

Gilmore has had many offers to make his pizzas for different Central Ohio businesses, but has recently only expanded to a local establishment, Jack's Tavern.

He trained Phil Kasler and Hewitt Yunker to operate the pizza oven, owned by Giovanni's, and prepare short orders for the tavern.

At Giovanni's, pizza is the primary business, everything else is secondary. The business continues to flourish and Gilmore hopes that families and friends will continue to support his business.

Hours of the business are 4 p.m. to midnight Sunday through Thursday and 4 p.m. to 1 a.m. Friday and Saturday. Gilmore anticipates opening soon during afternoon hours offering his Italian specialties to the downtown working people.

So, if you like pizza, try Giovanni's. "It'll be ready in 20 minutes," concludes Gilmore.

WEATHER OUTLOOK — This is the 30 day precipitation and temperature outlook map from the National Weather Service.

Commissioners Discuss Study Of Clark Lake Sewage Plant

Pickaway County Commissioners Monday discussed a proposed federally funded study grant for a sewage treatment plant for the Clark Lake area.

Russell F. Crouse, a representative of Burgess and Niple of Columbus, consulting engineers, informed commissioners of the availability of the EPA matching grant for the study, noting the present treatment system at the area no longer conforms to Environmental Protection Agency guidelines.

Crouse reported he has already discussed the engineering study for a new or revamped treatment system with the Pickaway County Health Department and with the Planning Commission. The grant calls for 75 per cent to be provided by the federal government and 25 per cent by the county. Commissioners Dick T. Tootle,

L. Robert Liston and Donald Strous said they would discuss the proposal with the planning commission and health department before reaching a decision.

Bob Johnson of C & I Supply visited with commissioners briefly to express an interest in bidding on the proposed Senior Citizens Center at the Pickaway County Fairgrounds. The Council on Aging is preparing to apply for a community development block grant to construct the center.

Terry Anderson met with commissioners to discuss an employ health and live insurance program for all county employees. He was asked by commissioners to prepare a program including cost figures to present to them.

A contract with Fleming, Page and Stolte Inc., for county-wide housenumbers was extended three months.

Already the firm has completed housenumbers east of the Scioto River.

Massillon Fire Investigation Starts

MASSILLON, Ohio (AP) — Massillon Fire Chief Mike Bednar says a heavy crane is being brought in so investigators seeking the cause of an explosion that killed three firemen can probe deep into the wreckage of La Cuisina Restaurant.

Bednar said Monday "positive readings of flammable liquids" had shown up in preliminary checks, but arson investigators needed to go deeper to pin down the causes of Sunday's explosions and fire.

U.S. Treasury Department bomb squads are helping with the investigation, along with the Ohio Bureau of Criminal Investigation and the state fire marshal's office.

Bednar said he felt certain from preliminary investigation that the blast was not a natural gas explosion.

In addition to the three killed, two persons were injured in the explosion. Fire Capt. Joseph Glosien, 51, remained in guarded condition Monday night in the intensive care unit of Massillon City Hospital.

Also seriously injured was Norman Reeder, 57, a resident of the area who was standing near the building when the wall blew out. Reeder was reported in fair condition at Doctors' Hospital with burns and a broken right arm and shoulder.

Owner of the building was listed as the NADA Corp., whose sole stockholder is Mrs. Louis Battista, wife of a Canton rackets figure.

Her husband, who was fined $5,000 in U.S. District Court in 1971 for numbers racketeering, declined comment on the fire and explosions that wrecked the restaurant.

A house and barn owned by Battista in Plain Township were destroyed by fire last September. Plain Township Fire Chief Clarence Snyder said his

Ship Claim Deadline Set June 1

CLEVELAND (AP)—Oglebay Norton Co. and an insurance company have responded to damage suits in the sinking of the ore carrier Edmund Fitzgerald by asking U.S. District Court to exonerate them from liability or limit liability to $817,920.

Attorney Thomas Murphy said in filing the petition Monday that Oglebay and Northwest Mutual Life Insurance Co. had been diligent in making the 729-foot-long ship seaworthy and could not be considered negligent in the Nov. 10 sinking of the Fitzgerald.

The company said the sinking was caused by a violent storm on Lake Superior and noted that the Coast Guard is investigating but has as yet made no findings as to the cause of the sinking.

At Murphy's request, U.S. District Court Judge William Thomas issued an order that any claims in the disaster must be filed with the court by June 1.

Wives of two of the 29 crewmen lost when the Fitzgerald went down have filed suits asking $2 million each in regular and punitive damages.

John J. Dwyer, president of Oglebay Norton, said the company "is in close touch with every family involved to make sure that none lacks the immediate financial support it needs."

men were called to fight three fires in those unoccupied buildings within a period of about three weeks, and "the third fire did it. The buildings were destroyed."

The chief said the causes of those fires had not been determined. They still are being checked by arson investigators, he said.

At LaCuisina, firemen were called after a first, small explosion started a fire in the building. It was as the firemen were fighting the first fire that the building blew up.

Order 33 To Return To Work

GALLIPOLIS, Ohio (AP)—Thirty-three employees of Gallipolis State Institute have been ordered temporarily returned to their jobs by a common pleas court judge here.

Judge Ronald Calhoun of Gallia County issued a temporary injunction for their reinstatement Monday but stipulated it is to be effective only until appeals from their dismissal are resolved.

The state institution was hit by a walkout Nov. 14, and at one time it idled more than 400 employees, said Herschel Sigall, counsel for members of Local 1790 of the Communications Workers of America.

Judge Calhoun said in his order that the action was taken in part because "the patients at Gallipolis State Institute are in need of the care and attendance of those employees who are on strike."

He said the temporary injunction "does not in any way interfere with the right of the employer (the state) to fire these employees for other reasons, nor does it interfere with the (employees') appeals to the State Personnel Board of Review."

Sigall, a Columbus attorney, called the judge's decision "a legal precedent which all public employers should weigh very carefully prior to future attempts to starve their employees into submission while the appeals process moves forward at its incredibly slow pace."

Griffin Heads All-American Squad

NEW YORK (AP) — Four repeaters, led by Ohio State's Archie Griffin, the 1974 Heisman Trophy winner, have been named to The Associated Press 1975 college football All-America team along with Oklahoma's Selmon brothers, Leroy and Dewey.

The Selmons thus completed a family sweep which began when their older brother Lucious was named to the 1973 All-America team as a middle guard. Leroy is a 256-pound defensive tackle while Dewey is a 257-pound nose guard.

In addition to Griffin, major college football's first 5,000-yard rusher, the other repeaters from the 1974 All-America team are center Rik Bonness of Nebraska, defensive end Leroy Cook of Alabama and defensive back Pat Thomas of Texas A&M.

The Selmon brothers are joined on the 1975 squad by teammate Jimbo Elrod, a defensive end, giving Oklahoma three men on the front five. Joining Griffin in the backfield are a trio of stars from the Pacific-8 Conference — quarterback John Sciarra, who guided UCLA to its first Rose Bowl in 10 years; running back Ricky Bell of Southern California, who led the nation with 1,875 yards, just six short of the NCAA single-season record, and running back Chuck Muncie of the University of California, who broke every school rushing, all-purpose running and scoring mark in leading the Golden Bears to a share of the Pac-8 crown.

The tight end is Mike Barber of Louisiana Tech, a member of The AP's Little All-America team a year ago when Tech was a College Division school.

The rest of the offensive line consists of wide receiver Larry Seivers of Tennessee, tackles Mark Koncar of Colorado and Bob Simmons of Texas and guards Randy Johnson of Georgia and Ted Smith of Ohio State.

Joining the Selmons, Elrod and Cook on the defensive front five is 6-foot-5, 270-pound tackle Steve Niehaus of Notre Dame. His selection marks the 12th consecutive year a Notre Dame player has been named to the first team.

The linebackers are Greg Buttle of Penn State, Sammy Green of Florida and Ed Simonini of Texas A&M. The defensive backs in addition to Thomas are Mike Haynes of Arizona State and Chet Moeller of Navy.

Bell, who was virtually Southern Cal's entire offense this season after moving from fullback to tailback, carried 357 times in piling up his 1,875 yards and rushed for 13 touchdowns. His season average of 170.5 yards a game is the fourth best in NCAA history.

Muncie's total of 1,460 yards on the ground ranks fourth in the country this year and is the third best in Pac-8 history, surpassed only by Bell and Southern Cal's O.J. Simpson, who gained 1,709 yards in 1968. Muncie also caught 39 passes for 392 yards and threw three passes, completing all of them for 50, 46 and 46 yards. The 46-yards went for touchdowns.

Griffin, who is favored to become the first two-time Heisman winner today, carried 245 times for 1,357 yards.

The Circleville Herald, Tuesday December 2, 1975 11

Archie Griffin Likely To Repeat

NEW YORK (AP) — Ohio State's Archie Griffin was expected here today to become the first player in the history of college football to win the Heisman Trophy for the second time.

If Griffin wins the 1975 Heisman, as expected, he would perform a feat which such past heroes as Army's Doc Blanchard, Doak Walker of Southern Methodist, Ohio State's Vic Janowicz and Navy's Roger Staubach were unable to accomplish. All won the Heisman in their junior years but failed to repeat as seniors.

The Associated Press learned that Griffin was told by the Downtown Athletic Club of New York on Monday to book a flight which would get him here in time for the noon, EST, announcement.

Some of Griffin's main challengers — running backs Ricky Bell of Southern California, Tony Dorsett of Pitt and Chuck Muncie of California—reported they had not been contacted by the Downtown A.C., which awards the Heisman annually "to the out-

Dolphins Victory May Prove Costly

MIAMI (AP) — Earl Morrall did what he's supposed to do. He came off the bench in place of sidelined Bob Griese and quarterbacked the Miami Dolphins to victory over New England.

But now the question is: will someone have to come off the bench next Sunday in place of Morrall?

Morrall's 41-year-old body held up long enough to lead Miami to an easy 20-7 National Football League triumph Monday night, but a knee injury may leave the Dolphins depending on an inexperienced third-stringer at quarterback.

Morrall completed his first 13 passes to complement a strong running attack. He had the Dolphins ahead 17-0 in the third quarter before leaving the nationally televised game with ligament damage in his left knee.

Coach Don Shula said Morrall's status for Sunday's American Conference East Division first-place battle between the Dolphins (8-3) and Buffalo (7-4) was up in the air.

With Griese out for the remainder of the season, Don Strock is the only reserve available.

"If Earl's out, we'll look around — but this late in the season, it's hard to find anyone," Shula said.

Shula's fretting didn't draw any sympathy from Patriots' Coach Chuck Fairbanks.

"We were just overmatched," said Fairbanks. "They have a hard road to the Super Bowl but have the potential to get here."

Morrall ended up with 14 completions in 17 attempts for 135 yards but Fairbanks, a 1954 Michigan State teammate of Morrall, warned, "They will miss Griese. I thought Earl played well ... but he's not Griese."

Morrall was still walking after the game and predicted, "I'll be ready (Sunday)."

He completed seven of his passes to his backs and relied on the running of Don Nottingham (55 yards), Benny Malone (52 yards) and Norm Bulaich (37 yards) to control the game.

"I've got to keep up my image," said Morrall, a 20-year veteran trying to re-live 1968 and 1972 when he replaced injured Johnny Unitas and Griese to lead Baltimore and Miami to conference titles.

The Patriots (3-8), who had scored 31 or more points in their three previous games, were held in check until a 75-yard drive in the final five minutes led to quarterback Steve Grogan's five-yard scoring run.

Miami led 14-0 at halftime on a one-yard run by Nottingham that capped a 65-yard drive and a six-yard Morrall to Bulaich pass play that followed Freddie Solomon's 41-yard punt return standing college football player in the United States." Others expected to finish high in the voting are Oklahoma running back Joe Washington and UCLA quarterback John Sciarra.

Griffin, a 5-foot-9, 192-pound tailback, finished the regular season as the nation's seventh leading rusher with 1,357 yards on 245 carries. En route, he became major college football's first 5,000-yard ground-gainer.

However, he fell 121 yards shy in his bid to break the alltime collegiate rushing mark of 5,297 set by Howard Stevens in two years at Randolph-Macon and two at Louisville. Randolph-Macon is a College Division school.

In winning the 1974 Heisman, Griffin rushed 236 times for 1,620 yards. His record streak of gaining 100 yards or more in 31 consecutive regular-season games was snapped in the 1975 finale when Michigan held him to 46 yards in 19 carries.

to the Patriots' 22.

A fumble by the Patriots' Sam Cunningham at the Patriots' 24 on the first play of the second half led to the first of two 25-yard field goals by Gary Yepremian.

Pfeifer Resigns

As WCH Grid Coach

The dean of the South Central Ohio League head football coaches, Maurice Pfeifer, has submitted his resignation to the Washington C. H. Board of Education as coach of the Blue Lions.

Completing his eleventh year as head coach at Washington C. H., the 38-year-old Pfeifer gave no reason for his resignation.

He compiled an impressive 68-37-5 record, including a 10-0 season in 1973 that gained the Blue Lions the No. 1 spot in the Associated Press grid poll.

It is not known if Pfeifer plans to continue as high school athletic director and assistant principal of the Washington C. H. Middle School.

Northwestern Stuns Kentucky

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

Billy McKinney is not quite a household name, not even where college basketball is a favorite topic of discussion around the dinner table. But that's about to change, according to Northwestern Coach Tex Winter.

"If there's a better guard in the United States, I'd like to know who he is," enthused Winter after McKinney's 31 points led Northwestern to a stunning 89-77 upset of seventh-ranked Kentucky Monday night. "I've been his fan since he came here as a freshman."

McKinney, a 6-foot junior, was the highest scoring guard in the Big Ten with an 18.2 average last season, but was little known on the national scene. Monday night, he hit on 11 of 16 field goal attempts and added nine free throws to lead the young Wildcats to their upset of Kentucky, runnerup to UCLA in last year's NCAA championships.

Northwestern led at the half 42-34, then broke it open by outscoring Kentucky 23-8 during the first nine minutes of the second half. Hilton Hale hit for eight of his 13 points and McKinney added six in that decisive spurt.

Cincinnati Stops Miami, Ohio 66-57

By The Associated Press

Tenth-ranked Cincinnati spurted from behind Monday night to win its second straight game of the young collegiate basketball season, defeating Miami of Ohio 66-57 on the Bearcats' home floor.

That non-conference skirmish highlighted a series of games that involved more than a score of Ohio teams, including some that travelled out of state for intersectional matches.

Cincinnati Coach Gale Catlett said of his team's surge that "we kept our poise and I was very proud ..." But he added that the Bearcats "didn't respond very well" to the variety of defenses thrown at them by Miami. The coach had special praise for Bob Miller, his 6-foot-10 sophomore center whom he said "is just getting his game together."

Illinois had little trouble disposing of Kent State 73-54 on the Illini boards as the Golden Flashes ventured into early season competition with a Big Ten team.

At Blacksburg, Va., Virginia Tech's pressing defense, plus the scoring of Russell Davis and Duke Thorpe, led the Gobblers to an 89-44 romp over Akron's Zips in a loosely played game in which there were 54 turnovers.

Davis poured in 27 points and Thorpe, coming off the bench as he usually does, added 19 and pulled down a game-high 13 rebounds as Tech upped its record to 2-0.

It was the season opener for Akron, led by Vic Butler with 12 points and Chuck Booms with 10.

Valdosta State scored 12 straight points at the start of the second half and went on to defeat Capital University 83-75 in an intersectional game at Valdosta.

Three Valdosta State starters wound up with 16 points each — Jackie Manuel, Blondie Fletcher, and Mike Patrick. Gary Powell and Napoleon Allen had 15 apiece for the visitors. It was the opening game of the season for Valdosta, while Capital slipped to 1-1.

Miller hit 17 points and pulled down 12 rebounds to let Cincinnati overcome a 12-point deficit to defeat Miami.

Miami, led by Chuck Goodyear, did not allow Cincinnati a point for the first four minutes and ballooned an 18-6 lead before the Bearcats charged back to trail 26-24 at the half.

Pat Cummings's 10-foot jumper tied the score at 26 to open the second half. Miller tapped in the go ahead score and Cincinnati never trailed again.

Westfall Juniors Split Cage Tilts

Westfall junior high cagers split a pair of contests with Zane Trace Monday with the Mustang seventh graders, 1-1, taking a 35-27 decision and the eighth graders, 0-2, dropping a 62-31 tilt to the Pioneers.

The Mustangs seventh graders led 8-0 at the first period, trailed 13-12 at halftime but were on top 25-20 at the end of the third period.

Jerry Mowery led the winners with 15 markers, Lonnie Puckett added seven and Matt Gibson had five. Dave Lewis was top man for Trace with 10 points.

The Westfall eighth graders trailed 18-2, 33-14 and 56-22 at the end of the quarters. Mike Whitten netted 18 points to pace Westfall.

J. Bennett, and J. Hatton both had 10 for the Pioneers while D. Greenwalt added nine.

attempts in the second half to lead Arizona past Midwestern. Fleming was scoreless in the first half but finished with 20 points while Herman Harris led the Wildcats with 21 points, 19 of them in the first half.

Eddie Johnson scored 22 points and led a potent fastbreak attack that helped Auburn ease past Butler.

Kansas State bounced back from its opening loss to Texas Tech to rout Louisiana Tech. Senior guard Chuckie Williams popped in 28 points and also keyed a pressing man-to-man defense that forced 32 turnovers.

TOP GYMNAST — Circleville's Lynne Klim, a member of the Chillicothe YMCA's gymnastic team, competed in the Southeast Gymnastic meet recently and took first place in the vault and third place on the floor in the 12 to 14-year-old class. Chillicothe captured the tri meet which included teams from Wheeling and Cambridge. Lynne is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Klim, 575 Mapleview Lane.

Little Vikings Defeat Mustangs

Teays Valley seventh and eighth grade basketball teams both turned in wins over Westfall.

The little Vikings won the seventh grade game 32-31 on a foul shot by Pat Rose with 10 seconds left in the game.

Roose and Rusty Sturgell led the Vikings with eight points apiece, Bill Neal netted seven, Joe Chandler tallied six and Scott Ford had three.

Lonnie Puckett paced Westfall with nine, Jerry Mowery and Greg Beard each had six, Gibson and Strittmatter each hooped four and Hill had two.

The eighth graders of Teays Valley rolled to a 77-20 decision over Westfall.

John Sanders netted 18 for the winners, Shawn Blue had 10, Dean Brown and R. D. Rouse both had nine. Dave Myers tallied eight, Scott Bartholomew, Mark Hoover and Ron Fausnough each added six, Norm Dresbach had three and Mike Herron added two.

Whitten, Puckett and Sollars each had four for Westfall while Roush, Bowser, Moore and Roberts all had two.

The Teays Valley seventh graders will host Grove City and the eighth graders will host Madison Middle Tuesday.

Ohio State Dominates Big Ten Grid Team

CHICAGO (AP) — Champion Ohio State and runnerup Michigan dominated the 1975 All Big Ten football team selected by the Associated Press.

The Rose Bowl bound and top ranked Buckeyes placed seven men on the first team consisting of 11 players on offense and 11 on defense. Michigan, headed for the Orange Bowl, landed five berths.

Northwestern and Wisconsin had two players each while Illinois, Iowa, Purdue, Indiana, Michigan State and Minnesota had one each.

Tailback Archie Griffin and defensive back Tim Fox of Ohio State were the only unanimous selections of a panel of sportswriters and broadcasters throughout the Midwest.

Griffin and quarterback Cornelius Greene, also of Ohio State, running back Billy Marek of Wisconsin and defensive lineman Tim Davis of Michigan were repeaters from last year's all conference team.

The team is loaded with upperclassmen. Junior wide receiver Jim Smith of Michigan was the only nonsenior selected on offense. Four juniors made the defensive team.

They were linemen Nick Buonamici of Ohio State and Blane Smith of Purdue, linebacker Ed Thompson of Ohio State and back Tom Hannon of Michigan State.

Gordon Bell, the league's leading rusher, joined Griffin, Greene and Marek in the backfield. Illinois' Joe Smalzer was the tight end.

Paul Jasinskis of Northwestern was the center surrounded by tackles Rod Walters of Iowa and Scott Dannelley of Ohio State and guards Ted Smith of Ohio State and Terry Stieve of Wisconsin.

Joining Buonamici, Davis and Smith in the front five on defense were Dan Jilek of Michigan and Keith Simons of Purdue. Donnie Thomas of Indiana and Don Dufek of Michigan were the other two linebackers with Pete Shaw of Northwestern rounding out the defensive backfield.

FOR WEDNESDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): Meet this day with the determination to see its new possibilities and offers — many to be eagerly grasped. Business negotiations highly favored.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): Stellar aspects encourage your finest efforts. This is the time to go all out and accomplish really big things. But avoid all "get-rich-quick" schemes.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): Fine Mercury influences! You should have a happy go of things generally. Especially favored: writers, advertising and promotion experts, communications workers generally.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): Ignore persons who would downgrade your ambitions. Do not let them influence you. Keep plugging toward the achievement of goals you KNOW are worthwhile.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Calculations, estimates and reports will need most careful attention. Take nothing for granted. Day calls for exceptionally good judgment and foresight.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): As with Gemini, Mercury influences are excellent. Use them to advance all worthwhile aims. Emphasize your versatility.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Tolerance and discretion must mark all speech and action now. Stressing these traits, you can sail full steam ahead, with credits and new prizes as your reward.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22): Fine opportunities indicated. Make the best use of your talents and demonstrate the edge you have in proficiency and strategy.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): Jupiter influences encourage substantial interest and projects. Bide your time where fast moves could undo the effect of work already started commendably. Heed your intuition.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): A bright outlook! Get an early, efficient start and maintain a tempo suited to your requirements and abilities. Remain calm in discussions.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): You may be faced with some new responsibilities now, but don't let them dismay you. New benefits will accompany them, will add up to a more interesting future.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): You have the ability, but may lack the "nerve" or faith in yourself to move at the right moment. You MUST be confident now. Things ARE going your way.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with a brilliant intellect and, properly educated and developed, could become a powerful influence in whatever sphere of life you choose career-wise. You are especially adapted to literature and could make an outstanding success as a novelist, poet, journalist, publisher or editor. Either literary or dramatic criticism would also be a splendid outlet for this talent since, besides the gift of words, you are endowed with a keen and penetrating mind; are highly logical and objective in analyses. Other fields in which you could make an eminent name for yourself: science, the law, music and painting. Birthdate of Gilbert Stuart, portrait painter; Newton D. Baker, Amer. statesman; Sir Rowland Hill, author of the penny postal system; Joseph Lhevinne, world-famous Russian pianist.

NEW YORK (AP) — This is a bit radical, but I think the networks each year should invite cities other than New York, Los Angeles and San Francisco to serve as the locales of new series.

This brainwave hit me the other day as I looked at the networks' new program schedules for January. Fun City, LA and the City by the Bay are amply represented as settings for new and returning programs.

But places like Worcester, Mass., Peoria, Ill., or even faded Short Pump, Va., are noticeably absent from the lineup of TV locales.

True, Minneapolis hit the big time in 1970 as the setting for the hit "Mary Tyler Moore Show." Indianapolis and Milwaukee are the locales for two new situation comedies coming up this winter.

The rest of America? Well, Chicago is represented in "Good Times" and "The Bob Newhart Show," while the nation's 50th state is showcased in "Hawaii Five-O." But that's it. Television's Big Three still have most of the action.

The Los Angeles area is particularly laden with TV cops and gumshoes. It is there you'll find Cannon, Bronk, Joe Forrester, Harry O, Starksy and Hutch and the gang from "S.W.A.T.," "Police Woman" and "Police Story" keeping the streets safe for decent citizens.

In January, two more cops, the Blue Knight and Jigsaw John, will join LA's law-and-order crew. If there's a car crash, a fire or a natural disaster, the "Emergency" crew will give first aid.

All this on a weekly basis. Every fourth week or so, Columbo also arrives, scratches his head, takes off his raincoat and solves a crime.

San Francisco is a bit lighter in crime-fighting. It now only has the cops in "Streets of San Francisco" pounding a weekly beat, but in February a New York cop will move there in a show called "Superstar."

One suspects he'll get fourthweek support from "McMillan and Wife."

Considering its size, New York is very light on law and order now. Kojak and Ellery Queen are the only weekly crime-solvers, with assists coming every fourth week from a gendarme called McCloud.

But the Big Apple is very heavy on laughter, and not just because it's still trying to sell municipal bonds.

At least eight situation comedies with a New York-area setting will be with us at mid-season.

San Francisco currently has only one sitcom but the Los Angeles area has four in the midseason schedule.

The stranglehold New York, Los Angeles and San Francisco have on series' locales must be ended. The Big Three should be ignored next season and other American cities given a chance.

Kissinger Vetoes Cuban Relations

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, irked by Cuban "meddling" in Angola and Puerto Rico, has vetoed a plan to improve U.S.-Cuban relations through sports, American officials say.

Inspired by the way "Ping Pong diplomacy" helped thaw U.S.-China relations four years ago, State Department officials had looked favorably on a plan for U.S. major league baseball players to compete against a Cuban team next March in Havana.

Kissinger acknowledged last week at a news conference that such a plan had been in the works but said it was shelved. He did not give any reason.

Officials later disclosed that he rejected the idea because of Cuban military involvement in support of the pro-Moscow faction in Angola's civil war and Cuba's insistent demands for Puerto Rican independence.

Another factor, officials said, was Cuba's vote last month in favor of a United Nations resolution linking Zionism with racism.

State Department sources confirmed a report in Sports Illustrated magazine that two independent television producers, Barry Jagoda of New York and Richard Cohen of Dallas, have spent more than a year trying to arrange a trip to Cuba by U.S. major league players.

The magazine said an agreement to play ball was reached at an October meeting in Mexico City involving Jagoda and Cohen, baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn and Cuban sports officials. It said the ABC network was willing to pay $165,000 for television rights.

American officials acknowledged the game still could be played next March if U.S.-Cuban relations improve in the coming months.

But one official expressed doubt that this would happen because of domestic political considerations. With Republican presidential primary elections scheduled for February and March, any gesture toward Cuba at that time could cost President Ford conservative support in those primaries, officials said.

The last professional game involving U.S. and Cuban teams was played in Havana in 1960, a few months before the two countries broke diplomatic relations. In those days, major league rosters were filled with players who had come from the Cuban leagues.

Baseball is one of the few U.S. imports still popular in Cuba. Prime Minister Fidel Castro, a pitcher as a young man, was receptive to the idea of exchanging baseball and basketball teams when it was mentioned last May by visiting Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D.

But since then, political differences between the two countries have sharpened. U.S. officials admit that recent reports of CIA assassination plots against Castro have set back detente prospects.

Doctor Strikes Under Study By AMA Clinical Convention

HONOLULU (AP) — The American Medical Association, in what a spokesman described as "groping for a position" on doctors' strikes for economic gain, votes today on the issue.

"It is not in our tradition to support strikes," AMA president Dr. Max H. Parrott, of Portland, Ore., said Monday. "But we may run into this in the future."

Doctors' strikes have surfaced as a major issue at the AMA's annual clinical convention here. A resolution submitted to the association's House of Delegates seeks AMA support for a two-week strike last month by residents and interns at the Cook County Hospital in Chicago.

The resolution says the Cook County strike was to improve patient care, but Parrott calls the action "an obvious economic dispute."

Votes also were scheduled today on malpractice and national health insurance, and all three issues were expected to generate lively debate.

Young doctors who support job actions, a euphemism for wildcat strikes, are opposed by older doctors who reject strikes as a violation of medical ethics.

"The medical societies in Europe act as unions, but the AMA has never acted as a negotiating body," Parrott said in an interview. "But we may be at that point where we will have to get into collective bargaining in the future."

To prepare for this eventuality, Parrott said, the AMA is developing a department of negotiations to train medical personnel for possible collective bargaining.

The right to die and the conflict between legal and medical definitions of death — questions that recently have attracted widespread public attention — are not issues at the convention.

"We have already taken a position on that," Parrott said. "We believe that determination of death is a medical problem and cannot be set down as a legal problem."

Death must be determined by physicians on a case-by-case basis with consultation of other physicians and the patient's family, he said.

Parrott said the Morristown, N.J., case of Karen Anne Quinlan would be resolved by now had the case not gone to court.

"That case got too much publicity," Parrott said. "There was no way anyone would pull the plug after that."

Tobacco Prices Spurt Upwards

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Kentucky tobacco growers increased their offerings by millions of pounds as they opened the second week of burley auctions, and were rewarded with sharp price increases.

Farmers across the state sold 21,223,424 pounds of burley Monday, up sharply from the highest daily volume of the opening week, 14,404,915 pounds last Tuesday.

They received an average of $109.70 per hundred pounds, up from last week's highest average of $108.67 recorded Friday.

Twenty-eight of the 30 Kentucky markets held sales Monday.

THANKSGIVING ASSEMBLY — A collection was taken at the conclusion of the Thanksgiving Assembly, at Washington School to provide gifts for the residents at the Circleville Manor, Pickaway Manor, and the Brown Memorial Home. Students at Washington created Thanksgiving cards and made favors for each of the residents. Cake was provided for each person for Thanksgiving Day. Miss Berry, Mrs. Ramsey, and Miss Snyder (not pictured) coordinated the efforts in seeing that the gifts were distributed. Students along with teachers are pictured above. From left to right are Beth Hawkins, Julie Wills, Miss Beery, Caroline Grooms, Mrs. Ramsey, Kristin Drake, Kay Lynn Drake, Lori Williams, Paul Goode, Sherri Seimer, and David Hoffman are shown delivering the gifts at Circleville Manor.

Claim FBI Ignored Klan Violence For Half Decade

WASHINGTON (AP) — The FBI often had advance notice of planned Ku Klux Klan violence but in one instance simply stood by taking pictures while Klansmen attacked a group of blacks and civil rights workers, a former FBI informant says.

Gary Thomas Rowe Jr., who now lives under an alias in California, is scheduled to testify today before the Senate Intelligence Committee. A committee spokesman said Rowe would wear a mask during his testimony in order to protect his new identity.

Rowe said Monday that he repeatedly warned the FBI of planned Klan violence during his five years as an informant but that agents seldom took action to stop it.

In an interview, he cited one 1961

Confirmation Of Stevens Seen Certain

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nomination of John Paul Stevens to the Supreme Court appears to face only the question of when rather than whether the Senate will confirm him, according to preliminary indications.

President Ford's selection has met with generally favorable reaction in the legal community and in Congress, where so far there have been no signs of serious opposition to the nomination.

The Senate Judiciary Committee is to begin hearings Dec. 8 on Stevens, who is Ford's first nominee to the high court, Chairman James O. Eastland, D-Miss., said Monday.

Stevens, a member of the 7th Circuit Court of Appeals sitting in Chicago, met Monday with Eastland and ranking minority committee member Sen. Roman L. Hruska, R-Neb., as part of the traditional courtesy call on senators. Stevens was accompanied by White House counsel Philip Buchen and presidential aide John O. Marsh Jr.

After a lengthy conversation, Eastland emerged to say Stevens seemed "very pleasant and capable."

Eastland said that if the committee's hearings are to be completed before Congress leaves for Christmas recess, there will have to be practically no opposition.

Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W. Va., deputy majority leader and a member of the Judiciary Committee, said he doubted the Senate could act on the nomination before adjourning, especially if recess begins Dec. 12.

Byrd told reporters there would be a better chance if, as appears likely, adjournment is delayed until Dec. 19.

In naming the 55-year-old jurist to the court, Ford said he hoped the Senate would act promptly to bring the court to full strength. Stevens was nominated to fill the seat of retired Justice William O. Douglas.

incident in which he notified the FBI three weeks in advance of a planned Klan attack on a group of freedom riders in Birmingham, Ala. He said that despite his warnings, the FBI stood by and took photographs during the violence.

"People just got all beat to hell," Rowe said.

He said he recalled only one instance in which the FBI acted on one of his warnings and averted planned violence.

Rowe at one point was charged in connection with the 1965 murder of white civil rights worker Viola Liuzzo near Selma, Ala. Three Klansmen were convicted of civil rights violations at a trial in which Rowe appeared as the government's star witness. A grand jury failed to indict Rowe, and charges against him were dropped.

He said he decided to testify because the Justice Department failed to fulfill promises to him of money and a lifetime government job.

Divorce Case Remains Puzzle

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Janna Boren, who filed for divorce from Gov. David Boren six weeks ago, has been back at the governor's mansion since Thanksgiving Day, but only to recuperate from minor surgery, a Boren aide says.

In a brief statement, the governor's news secretary, Rob Pyron, said Monday that Mrs. Boren underwent minor surgery last Tuesday and was released Thursday.

He declined comment on the status of the divorce action Mrs. Boren filed at Madill, her home town, on Oct. 22. The waiting period prescribed by law has expired and, since Boren did not contest the divorce, she could obtain the decree at any time.

Mrs. Boren reportedly has been making plans to move to Dallas.

Drake Attends Discipline Conference

Dale Drake, Principal at Washington Township School, spent November 14 and 15 in Cincinnati attending a Discipline Conference, conducted by the staff of Dr. William Glasser's Educator Training Center. Douglas Naylor, Vice President of the Institute for Reality Therapy, was the keynote speaker for the conference.

Attention was focused on techniques to aid the child in developing a good self-image for identity rather than upon a goal oriented approach to learning. Dr. Glasser's philosophy has led him to write such books as "Reality Therapy" and "Schools Without Failure."

Interest in attending the conference was gained through the summer workshop, sponsored jointly by our County Board of Education and the State Department of Education, held during the summer of 1974. At that time, the basic techniques for the implementation of reality therapy were taught by Drs. Leonard and Lori Ran, enabling 30 teachers of Pickaway County to use these techniques in their classrooms.

SCHROEDER'S PIANO

Schroeder is still at it, but now, children can join in the music making with a real piano. Each key activates a carillon type musical sound and is color coded to go with a music sheet that has all of Schroeder's favorite songs — and many more are possible since this piano covers a full octave. All Schroeder's friends — Charlie Brown, Snoopy, Linus, Lucy, Peppermint Patty and Schroeder of course — pop up when the keys are hit. And each character can be removed for more play value. This educational musical instrument comes with a "C" battery.
